Birmingham, AL, June 18, 2007 – Oakstone Medical Publishing, a leader in Continuing Medical and Dental Education (CME/CDE) publishing and a Hights Cross Communications company, today announced that its "MKSAP 14 Audio Companion" was first-place winner in the "Best Single-Topic" category of the Specialized Information Publishers Foundation (SIPF) Editorial Awards for 2007. The awards were presented earlier this month during the awards luncheon at The Marriott Renaissance Mayflower Hotel in Washington, DC.

The MKSAP (Medical Knowledge Self-Assessment Program) Audio Companion is a core Oakstone CME program, sponsored by American College of Physicians (ACP). Thousands of physicians have used both the ACP's MKSAP program and the Audio Companion to prepare for their certification and recertification exams as well as to enhance their knowledge in the 11 topic areas covered. Oakstone's MKSAP 14 Audio Companion, featuring all new audio commentary, is moderated by Dr. Donald L. Deye, MD, FACP, Medical Director of Oakstone Medical Publishing. The 90-hour audio program is available in three popular formats -- Compact Disc, MP3 Audio Disc, or the Audiofy Portable Memory Chip designed for selected PDAs and SmartPhones.

The Specialized Information Publishers Foundation (SIPF) is a non-profit foundation affiliated with the Specialized Information Publishers Association (SIPA), which is the international trade association dedicated to advancing the interests of for-profit subscription newsletter publishers and specialized-information services. The Specialized Information Publishers Foundation promotes specialized-information publishing through outreach to academic and professional institutions, facilitation of research and recognition of excellence in the field.
